APGO Electronic Educational Resource Award (e-ERA)

Call for Submissions

Due date: December 12, 2011

The Association of Professors of Gynecology and Obstetrics (APGO) is pleased to announce the opening of nominations for the 2012 APGO Electronic Educational Resource Award (e-ERA). e-ERA is designed to recognize excellence in the development of electronic learning resources.

To be eligible, the primary applicant must be a member in good standing of APGO. The learning resource must be publically available and internet-based. The educational content must be primarily directed to medical student learning, and be in the area of obstetrics and gynecology, or more broadly in the areas of women's health. In the latter case, obstetrics and gynecology should be featured prominently in the resource. Resources primarily targeted at resident learners are not eligible for this award.

Resources will be judged on a 100-point scale, as follows:

- | | |
|---|-----------|
| 1. Innovation/Creativity | 25 points |
| 2. Educational Content | 25 points |
| 3. General Organization and Design | 25 points |
| 4. Accessibility (including multimedia, hyperlinks, references) | 25 points |

Award winners will be announced at the CREOG & APGO Annual Meeting and, additionally, winners will receive an APGO e-ERA logo to display on the title page of the electronic learning resource. There is no monetary award associated with this program.

Only award applications submitted by email will be accepted. Applications must be submitted to apgoadmin@apgo.org by December 12, 2011. Click here to access the Application Form.
